BUFFALO RANCH, OKLAHOMA, lies in the heart of the Indian Nation, astride the paths of the original Great Buffalo herds, which at the time Columbus discovered America, numbered 60 million. Man's depreciation reduced these herds, in 1889 to 541. The Buffalo Ranch is dedicated to the preservation of the last remnants of these Great American Beasts, so that, like the American they symbolize, they shall stand as monuments to our freedom.

Hi!
We stopped here yesterday. It's a long story - got my picture taken - tell you later. We went to the powwow at Wyandotte. The costumes were beautiful. We went to Bob's farm, also. Twin Bridges is at a lake. Bob & I went down to it from our campsite a 200 yd. 45° angle drop! Right now it is pouring down rain. it started in about 10 seconds. See ya! Love, Nancy
